

Just married!
Alex Carr (left)
and Elvis Duran were wed on Sept. 14.

Elvis Duran & Alex Carr

Sept. 14, 2019
Santa Fe

When Z-100 radio deejay Elvis Duran walked down the aisle at his festive wedding to his longtime love, zookeeper Alex Carr, 39—with their schnauzer Max at Duran's side—the entire room began weeping. “Alex and I have never felt anything like it,” says Duran, 55. “The inspiring and soul-awakening speeches mirrored the love and affection coming from everyone.” After the couple of 10 years exchanged vows at the Eldorado Hotel & Spa in Santa Fe, the city where they have a second home, a mariachi band serenaded the 313 guests in a cocktail area designed to look like a local market, with trinket stalls, food trucks and an abundance of marigolds (by Petals L.A.). They then dined on New Mexican cuisine. “Visually it was one of the most exciting weddings I’ve ever planned,” says Mikie Russo of Michael Russo Events. Guests stayed up “drinking and dancing until 2 a.m. No one wanted to leave,” says Duran. “There was too much love in the room!”

The highlight of the evening? “Too many to count,” says Duran. “There was so much color and energy, the band was amazing.” And Tiffaney Wells, a drag queen who performed at the reception, “kept everyone laughing.” The newlyweds will honeymoon in Mallorca before heading back to work in New York City, home to Duran’s syndicated morning show. As for whether kids are next? “Not in the immediate future,” says Duran. “Our dog Max keeps us busy enough!” —GILLIAN TELLING

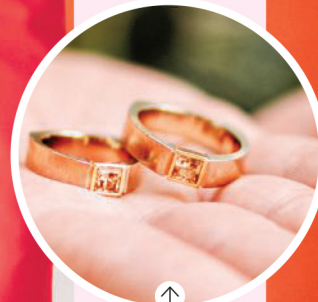

ALL THE DETAILS!

The Cake

The southwest-styled confection was vanilla with Italian cream and a caramel piñon filling.

The Rings

The couple “were beaming with joy” as they exchanged bands from Eidos Jewelry in Santa Fe, says wedding planner Mikie Russo.

The Party

Duran (next to good friend Dr. Oz) says his pink Versace blazer was “so bright you could see it from outer space.”

PHILIP SICILIANO
PHOTOGRAPHY