THEIR FIRST DANCE

Cake, cake, cake! Five flavors — Valrhona chocolate, vanilla bean, carrot, almond and banana — were served.

Robert and Kym Herjavec, Nick and Vanessa Lachey and Nikki Bella (from left) helped the couple celebrate.

Event planner Michael Russo says the couple wanted the decor (including flowers from Petals L.A.) to be "whimsical and free-flowing."

Brooks Laich, Bryan Agnew, Brittany Cherry and Julianne Hough let loose with the groom.

The couple performed a dance medley as a surprise: "I ripped my dress off!" says Slater.

In addition to Rosé Piscine, guests sipped Vodka 6100, Le Medaillon Champagne and wines from Ca' Palma.

Guests left with a mini bottle of Casamigos tequila and a Greenleaf Peony Bloom candle.

Shortly before Sasha Farber and Emma Slater said "I do" and danced the night away at banquet hall Bella Blanca, the couple of seven years met up at the Houdini Estate — a historic home they often pass while walking their pup, Ruby — to share a tender moment. There, the groom (clad in a tux by Onik Design) laid eyes on his bride (wearing Rivini) for the first time: "She was just the most beautiful thing in the world," says Farber, 33.

THEY DO

Post-vows, the magical night continued with a first dance to Ed Sheeran's "Perfect" (plus a congratulatory message from the singer himself); "a little special flash mob" from the wedding party (including grooms-men Derek Hough and Artem Chigvintsev); and impromptu performances by some famous guests: "Joey Fatone got on the mic" and belted out "Bye, Bye, Bye," reveals the groom. But after all the excitement, Slater, 29, tells Us, "I can't wait to just do normal stuff now as a married couple."
